

Eurasia Research Seminar Series 2025

Russia-Ukraine War and its Implications for Korea-Russia Relations

Seongjin KIM (Duksung Women's University, South Korea)

Russian Emigration to Eurasian Countries

Sergey RYAZANTSEV (Mahidol University, Thailand)

Moderator: Norio HORIE (GRASS, University of Toyama)

Commentator: Kenichi OHASHI (Rikkyo University)

Hidetomo Oyaizu (University of Toyama)

Date & Time: Wednesday, 22nd January, 2025

16:00-18:00

Venue: GRASS office, 1st floor at School of Economics,
Gofuku Campus, University of Toyama

This seminar will focus on how scholars can understand the impact of the Russia-Ukraine war on Eurasian societies and their international relations. The seminar will address the following questions: How can theoretical perspectives on South Korea's diplomatic policy towards Russia help us to interpret this critical moment in securitization of Northeast Asia and what are the consequences of the Russian exodus to Eurasian countries.

This seminar is supported by Eurasia Foundation and JSPS KAKENHI (JP24H00117)

Global Research Centre for Advanced Sustainability Science

<http://www3.u-toyama.ac.jp/grass/>